Cattle Horn-Fly Trap

Considerable success has been attained in Australia using a horn-fly trap constructed in a gateway or lane through which the cattle must pass once or twice a day. The passageway through the trap is 33 inches wide and 100 feet long.

The glass in the roof is coated on the inside with DDT and protected from the cattle by coarse screen wire. The animal passing through the trap has to brush between and under two sets of curtains, and eight weighted strips, brush her legs and belly, dislodging the flies which rise to the light and contact the treated glass.

Type of cattle horn-fly trap recommended by Macdonald college.

Anaplasmosis Gains Foothold on Range

Anaplasmosis is a febrile, infectious disease, transmitted from sick or carrier cattle or by ticks, horseflies and other biting insects. Young animals are seldom affected.

The treatment is still in the experimental stage and is largely a veterinary problem. Animals afflicted with the malady should be kept in the shade, given plenty of clean water, a little green feed, and protected against flies. Intravenous injection of mercurochrome has been used with success as well as a modified sodium-cacodylate treatment.

Remedy for Black Rot Disease Among Grapes

Use of bordeau mixture 4-4-100 plus one pound of rosin fish oil soap per 100 gallons of spray mixture is recommended for those vineyards where black rot and downy mildew have been serious. This spray is applied just before bloom, just after bloom and two weeks after bloom. If rainfall is above normal, it may be necessary to make a fourth application two weeks after the third treatment.

Limed Litter Helps Improve Hens' Health

Built-Up System Also Benefits Baby Chicks

By W. J. DRYDEN

Not only as a means of saving on the cost of litter material as well as on labor, but also as a coccidiosis control measure, authorities now recommend that litter be left in the brooder and laying house for a year or more.

When the litter is treated with hydrated lime little danger from disease will result. By using the built-up litter method, the poultry house receives additional insulation, resulting in drier litter and more uniform temperature. Extensive tests at Ohio and Washington State colleges have proven the value of this system of litter management.

When the built-up method is employed, the litter is first put in at two to three inches deep, to which one pound of hydrated lime is added to each five square feet of floor space. When the litter begins to pack, another layer of litter as well as application of lime is added. This may be repeated as needed. When the litter is stirred with a fork and sticks together in clumps, or if the hens can't move it when scratching, more lime should be added. Less liming will be needed if feed hoppers and other equipment is moved occasionally.

When deep litter is used, a greater amount of lime may be advisable. This system, in fact no system, will be satisfactory in damp weather, unless the house is well built and land well drained.

Healthy poultry can be kept on litter left in houses for a year or more.

'Green Manure' Crops

"Green manure" is vital to soil rebuilding and higher crop yields that come from a crop of legumes, as shown by accompanying chart.

To compare the organic matter and nitrogen various legumes produce through their tops and roots, tests were made at Joliet soil experiment field. Plots of white blossom sweet clover, alfalfa and red clover were seeded in oats May 1. Samples of tops and roots were collected November 1. Results showed that white blossom sweet clover produced considerably more organic matter and nitrogen in the fall of the first year than either legumes. Sweet clover is a superior green manure crop because of its growth in the fall and its high percentage of nitrogen in the spring of the second year. This greater fall growth the first year is due to the fact that sweet clover does not bloom, but continues growth until freezing weather. Alfalfa and red clover frequently will bloom in the fall of the first year. Vegetative growth stops with the blooming.

Practical Control of Brucellosis in Swine

The following program for control of brucellosis in swine should prove effective. Blood test breeding stock, segregation of infected breeding stock, blood test the prospective gilts and boars frequently and up to and during the first pregnancy, removing reactors and breed only negative gilts to clean boars.

Ammate or 2, 4-D Will Knock Out Poison Ivy

Poison ivy now can be killed with either of the two new chemicals, ammate or 2,4-D. If ammate is used as a spray, dissolve it in water at the rate of one pound to the gallon. Spray when the ivy is in full leaf so that the largest possible amount of surface will be covered, but spray on a cool, cloudy day when there is little chance of rain for 10 hours. Cover plants well so that they are soaked.

Widowed Stepmother Is Married by Californian

TUCSON, ARIZ.—Can a man legally marry his father's widow?

Belle D. Hall, Superior court clerk, posed the question. After checking the statutes, County Attorney Odin Dodd said there was nothing to prevent a man from marrying his stepmother.

So Mrs. Hall issued a license to William R. Jeffries Jr., 56, and Mrs. Marguerite C. Jeffries, 49, both of Pasadena, Calif. They were married by Judge Lee Garrett of Superior court.

"If she's half as good to me as she was to my father, I'll be the happiest man in California," said Jeffries.

WORRY AND INDIFFERENCE

★ Overanxiety, particularly about health, is a disease in itself. Physicians call it hypochondria. Those who "enjoy" ill health only make themselves and those about them miserable.

Opposed to chronic worry is complete indifference, to the point of disregard of commonsense health rules and contempt for medical care.

Between these two absurd extremes lies the sane and safe road. Petty, transient discomforts need not cause grave concern and frequent trips to the doctor. When symptoms persist or recur with annoying frequency, it is then time for professional assistance. Indifference under these circumstances only invites more serious trouble.

FATHER DARKLEAF

By The Editor

Say ye editor heard of "Sunshine Sue" was some years ago when we were visiting in Eastern Virginia and some friends remarked to us Mother Brightleaf that she would like "Sunshine Sue." Several years have passed. So we awaited a chance to see and hear Sue and her radio show. The chance came oddly. We were in Richmond to attend a meeting of the Virginia Press Association. We had paid three dollars each for tickets to a press banquet, Saturday night of the meeting. At the last minute we read in the Richmond evening paper and saw where "Sunshine Sue" and the Old Dominion Barn Dance radio show was being put on that night at the Lyric Theatre. So we gave away our three dollar banquet tickets and turned "hillbilly."

"Sunshine Sue" and her show will be in Appomattox next Thursday night. It's a good show.

We are glad to have products of not many fine gardens and farms brought to our office for exhibition. This week Mrs. W. P. Gills sent in a two-pound, perfectly formed cucumber. One of the largest we have saw. We also have a whale of a potato on exhibit.

Several people have remarked that our new school principal, John B. Peters has a facial resemblance to President Truman. We got after him about it this week, and he admitted that many have told him that he and the President favored.

We have recently put copies of our county paper on sale at Spencer's Drug Store's news stand, It is for convenience of non-subscribing tourists, and those wishing extra copies. Five cents per copy.

The building boom rolls on in Appomattox. We were guests the other evening in the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Ferrell. Mr. Ferrells are building a new home on a beautiful site on their splendid dairy farm. Across from them two new homes are nearly completed, to be occupied by Rev. Jerry Brown and John E. Peters, and the new Gregory home just off Green Ave, is coming along. In the Riley store on Route 460 is well under way, and ground has been broken for a shop on a lot across from the Appomattox Printing Co., and the two fine brick homes built by Edward Robertson on Court Street are nearing readiness for occupancy. On a recent drive from Appomattox to Oakville we noted quite a number of new homes, The Appomattox - Oakville road really has sprung up in the past decade. Robert Lee is building, and a number of others. No rest is in sight for carpenters and painters. Just west of Lee's a handsome new service station is about completed, and the new Jamerson residence is nearing completion. Did we leave out any?

It seems that the auto inspection stickers being put on cars during the current State inspection are dated for 1946-47, instead of 1947-48. It had been planned to have inspection last year and $6,000 worth of stickers were printed. So when last year's inspection was called off it was decided to save having a new order of stickers printed and use the old ones. They will be good for 1948 just the same.

Our friend, Horace Edwards, is making an excellent record as the mayor of the city of Richmond. He and the city attorney but took over as mayor when the incumbent died. Mr. Edwards has just asked the State Corporation Commission to order a reduction in electric bills in some 46 counties, If he succeeds, it will save consumers about $3,000,000 a year. Father Darkleaf went to school with Horace Edwards, and can attest to his ability. We look for him to be Governor of Virginia term after next.

No Quotas On Wheat

R. B. Bridgeforth, chairman of the Virginia State Production and Marketing Administration Committee, announced today that there will be no wheat marketing quotas and no acreage allotments during the 1948-49 wheat production and marketing season,

Action was taken by the U. S. Department of Agriculture in accordance with provisions of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938 designed to protect both consumers and producers in maintaining adequate supplies of food.

The action taken is considered desirable in view of the world food situation, Bridgeforth stated.

Families of Veterans Form 33 Per Cent of Population

WASHINGTON. — War veterans and their families now make up one-third of the population and within five years they will account for 43 per cent, Veterans' administration estimated.

Thereafter, unless new wars change the trend, the veteran-family population will level off and then gradually decline.

Veterans' administration computed the January 1, 1947, veteran-family population at 46,000,000, 32 per cent of the nation's total. It forecast for January 1, 1952, 62,300,000, or 43 per cent, and for January 1, 1957, 62,500,000, or 41 per cent.

SCENES AT HOLLIDAY LAKE, WHERE CROWDS FLOCK FOR RECREATION

There is something about a white sandy beach bordering a waterfront that draws crowds. A'l fishing, boating and beautiful picnic grounds, and you have the answer to the record crowds visiting Holliday Lake this summer.

The pictures above were taken on July Fourth, when some 5,000 people are estimated to have spent all or part of the day at Holliday Lake. A section of the beach is shown in two of the pictures, snapped by the Times-Virginian, and a view of the parking area is shown.

Holliday Lake is operated by the State of Virginia, on long-time lease from the Federal government. The area was developed during the "New Deal" era of works projects. The lake contains over 150 acres. The State of Virginia has developed the area, populating the lake with fish, and making boats, picnic grounds, life guards, etc. available.

A hard-surfaced road connects the lake area with Route 24. It is some fifteen miles from the town of Appomattox. The greatest number of visitors at Holliday come from Appomattox and Lynchburg, but visitors may be seen there from every nearby county and town and from all parts of the State.

Enlarged parking facilities are available this year. A bath house is fitted up in the concession building. Opposite the public bathing beach is the popular 4-H Club camp area operated by Virginia 4-H Clubs for summer camps.
